

Jigsy launches three new partner programs, and built in domain support.

Parkville, BC – March 22, 2010 – Jigsy.com announces the new version of their website builder which supports thousands of small business, churches, musicians, bloggers, community organizations, and small on-line stores.

“The Jigsy website builder is an excellent tool for building and hosting a website, and we are very excited to be able to resell our service with a selection of different partner programs.” explains Dave Shworan, owner of Jigsy.com.” Over the last couple of years we have seen a steady movement away from traditional hosting and into more enhanced services. Using the API integration Program hosting companies will now be able to generate new revenue by integrating a fully featured website builder into their current lineup of products.”

Jigsy is launching the following three new partner programs for Jigsy:

- Designer Program – The Designer program is tailor made to fit the needs of the design studios by allowing them to easily provide their clients with a very easy to use Content Management System, while saving the studios a lot of implementation time on their designs.
- Reseller Program – Is best suited to companies wishing to re-brand Jigsy and sell it to their customers from their own website as their very own website builder.
- API integration Program – Companies can now provide the Jigsy website builder to their customers by using a series of API calls to integrate Jigsy into their own user database, support and billing systems.

If you require any more information about any of these partner programs please do not hesitate to contact us for more information at contact@jigsy.com.

The new release of Jigsy also brings in support for registering and hosting domain names. Jigsy users and partners will be able to register and change the domain name settings, all from within the Jigsy website builder. “The most common support questions we have been fielding relate to setting up a domain. We are pleased this new Jigsy feature will make it easier for Jigsy users to set up their website,” said Tim Burke, Lead Customer Support.
